

The UK government has officially withdrawn support for the ambitious Morocco-UK Power Project, a $34 billion venture led by Xlinks to deliver renewable energy via a 3,800 km subsea cable.

Morocco is increasingly becoming Africa's solar export giant. With close proximity to Europe, the North African country is building massive solar infrastructure to export power to countries like ...

The Bottom Line: Morocco's gamble on renewable energy isn't just about mitigating climate change, it's about building a diversified, resilient economy. It's a story of ambition, innovation, ...

This is further bolstered by Morocco's ambitious renewable energy targets, aiming for over 52% of electricity generation from renewable sources by 2030. IRENA provides detailed information ...

As the global demand for data storage and processing continues to rise, the emphasis on sustainable practices is becoming increasingly important. Two recent initiatives in Indonesia ...

Morocco plans to build a 500 megawatt data centre powered by renewable energy to strengthen the security of data storage, its digital transition minister said. The centre will be located in ...

This chapter analyzes the potential, opportunities, and challenges of local energy transition in Tunisia and Morocco, through an analysis of success factors. Both countries have significant ...

Morocco plans to build a 500 megawatt state-owned data centre powered by renewable energy to strengthen security of data storage, its digital transition minister said. The centre will be ...

Construction at the Red Sands battery energy storage system (Bess) plant in South Africa's Northern Cape is imminent following financial close on 1 July. Once completed, the project developers said the plant will be one of ...

Morocco, Rabat: Morocco's Minister of Energy Transition Leila Benali has said the country needs to invest over $40 billion to achieve its national energy goals. "We need to invest more than ...

